What does this artwork mean to me?

My life hasn't always been easy. There have been times I felt completely lost, times I didn't want to get up anymore and to give up on everything. I felt like I couldn't control the storm inside of me anymore and that I have to let go.

I don't consider my artwork as art. I consider it more as some kind of therapy. I don't want you to understand my artwork because there is nothing to understand. There is no message in it, but only the moment. I want you to look at it, lose yourself in it like I do. I want to calm your mind with the symmetries and details. I don't want to provoke a storm inside of your head, but calm it.

My art should calm your mind, make you feel at peace. I just want you to enjoy the moment and appreciate the calmness.
